Alliteration and Assonance

Alliteration and assonance are sound devices used by poets to create musical effects in their poems.

Alliteration is the repetition of consonant sounds at the beginning of words in a line of poetry. For example, "The sun shone, the dew glistened, the birds sang, the flowers bloomed, the bees buzzed, the bees buzzed, the bees buzzed." The repetition of the 'b' sound at the beginning of the words 'bees' and 'buzzed' is an example of alliteration.

Look at the alliteration of 'f' and 'v' in the lines from 'The Snowman' by Raymond Briggs and consider what it achieves by the use of alliteration.

The snowman built the white snowman
The snowman piled the snow.

In 'A Midsummer Night's Dream', Shakespeare uses the repetition of alliteration to describe and comment on the characters.

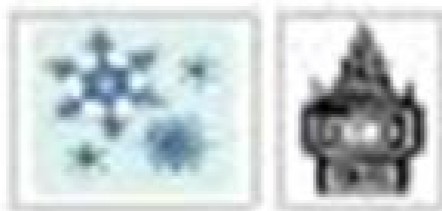

When we wake, we find ourselves
In the arms of our friends and foes.

Assonance is the repetition of vowel sounds in words.

The wind whistled through the trees
As the leaves rustled in the breeze.

Identifying Alliteration and Assonance
Read through these poems and underline the examples of alliteration and assonance in each.

From a Garden
What has been all along the time
Is now the time of day
The flowers are all open
And the bees are busy
Making the most of the day
By the garden.

Spring
The birds are all singing
The flowers are all blooming
The bees are all busy
Making the most of the day
By the garden.

Alliteration is the repetition of a speech sound in a sequence of nearby words. The terms is usually applied to consonants, and only when the recurrent sound begins a word or a stressed syllable within a word. Alliteration is used for special stylistic effects, such as to reinforce meaning, to link related words, or to provide tone colour and enhance the intensity of enunciating the words. Consonance is the repetition of a sequence of two or more consonants, but with a change in the intervening vowel e.g. live-love, lean-alone, pitter-patter. Assonance is the repetition of identical or similar vowels - especially in stressed syllables - in a repetition of nearby words. alliteration literature rhetoric.pdf File Size: 219 kb File Type: pdf Download File alliteration and tongue twisters.pdf File Size: 184 kb File Type: pdf Download File assonance alliteration consonance.pdf File Size: 72 kb File Type: pdf Download File assonance-worksheet.pdf File Size: 133 kb File Type: pdf Download File Posted in 5th Grade, Reading Writing Tagged Figurative Language, Grammar, Language, Language And Vocabulary, Writing, Writing Organization And Structure, Writing Process Last updated 16 August 2021 Mr Thorne explains alliteration, consonance and assonance, giving examples of each.
